Overview

“Nature of Giving,” an upper-division Honors colloquium, will concentrate on two primary learning outcomes.

First, students will gain an understanding and appreciation for the meaning/importance of philanthropy. Students will examine the scope and diversity of the philanthropic sector through historical figures like Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller and current philanthropists Warren Buffett and Bill Gates, who co-founded The Giving Pledge—a challenge directed toward the wealthy to give away a majority of their wealth to charitable causes. This work will introduce students from a range of disciplines to the complex roles various foundations currently play in US society and culture, and encourage them to examine further the intersections of philanthropy with policy, the arts, business, law, and society.

Second, students will solve problems associated with philanthropy by participating in real philanthropic endeavors. Students will research various nonprofit organizations located in both Fort Worth and international locations, visit and conduct interviews, develop various memoranda/briefing notes, and ultimately, in Scharbauer Hall’s Debate Chamber, argue the merits of each organization under consideration. Students taking the course will help determine the goals of our philanthropy, the number and size of our gift(s), the mode of our awarding the gift(s), and our plans for evaluating the success of our gift(s). The work in this course will affect real lives in meaningful ways, and students will discuss and make moral judgments as they engage micro-decisions while considering macro-consequences. Students will direct and control over $50,000 (donor-funded gifts to the course); it is up to the students’ collective wisdom to grant these funds responsibly under rules we create as a class and with the guidance of TCU.

Nature of Giving is designed to prepare students to live thoughtful, philanthropic lives. For some, the course will help imagine how giving can become a vocation—particularly in non-profit organizations. For all, the course should point out the importance of giving as an avocation in the future.

Course: Chronology and Philanthropic Work

Few universities offer courses in philanthropy or grant making. An even fewer number offer those courses in areas outside business schools, public policy/management programs, and graduate courses. John V. Roach Honors College students taking this course are fortunate to have this class because of The Once Upon A Time Foundation… who has founded “The Philanthropy Lab” and is funding similar classes at Harvard U, Yale U, Stanford U, Princeton U, Northwestern U, the U of Michigan, the U of Pennsylvania, the U of Texas, the U of Chicago, the U of Virginia, Middlebury U, UCLA, and Baylor, among others. Students in this course are also fortunate because TCU Donors like Mr. Jeff and Mrs. Kelly Dillard and Mr. Ed Schollmaier, who have taken an interest in the course and support it financially. Because of these gifts, TCU students will have the opportunity to both study and practice philanthropy by making substantial grants to a small group of nonprofit organizations.

Over the course of the first 3 weeks, studies of current and historical philanthropists will shape how students evaluate the operational strategies and goals of local philanthropies. Starting week 2 and ending week 7, students will conduct due diligence research on nonprofit organizations, picking personal favorites and assessing those organizations’ potential suitability for receipt of a grant. Guest speakers—including representatives from the Once Upon a Time Foundation, TCU Advancement and Development staff, the Fort Worth Zoo, TCU Donors, and the Amon Carter Foundation—will inform our research of regional nonprofit organizations.

For weeks 7 & 8, students will produce and read persuasive written descriptions (memoranda) about nonprofit organizations and vote for 15 finalist organizations. For weeks 9-12, students will divide into teams and complete background research (including on-site visits) on the finalist organizations, and then prepare a formal publication and group presentation for the benefit of other students in the class.

In weeks 13-14, the teams will present their persuasive arguments for donating either all or a part of the $50,000+ gift to their assigned organization in a presentation. Finally, during weeks 15 and 16, the class will debate the merits of each organization and reach a consensus on which 4-6 organizations will receive funds.

On Thursday, April 28 at 3:00 pm, students will arrange a public presentation of the award(s) to the nonprofit organization(s) and reflect on what they have learned and experienced.

Course Objectives and Topoi

- To understand strategic philanthropy
- To participate in the philanthropic process, perform due diligence discuss moral judgments, and make micro-decisions while considering the macro-consequences.
- To connect readings and discussions to real life through interactions with practitioners.
- To formulate and support an individual opinion/philosophy on the subject of giving.
- To determine what it means to “give away smartly” and understand why giving is actually difficult.

Responsibilities of Colloquium Members

Communicate effectively and clearly: The colloquium requires students to write persuasively, speak effectively in public, debate ideas, listen carefully, conduct independent research and bring ideas from your own fields of specialization.

Be professional, you are always representing TCU: The written assignments have length limits because conciseness and professionalism are key. Be mindful of your status as representatives of TCU in all contacts with external organizations. You are not students in many of the situations this course will place you: you are professionals with over $50,000 to give away responsibly.

Be dependable and present: Because class progress will often depend on your work, it is important to provide assignments on time by whatever means necessary. Even if you have to miss, the class needs your work product—notes, memorandums, and evaluations. Regular attendance is crucial to success in this course. Only official university-sanctioned absences are excused. Students missing class either to represent TCU in a university-mandated activity or attend conferences for professional development should provide official documentation of schedules and turn in work in advance. Two absences will result in your failing the course.

Be prepared: I expect every course member to read all of the assigned texts in advance of class and prepare for discussion by taking notes. As you read, plan to make at least two contributions to the discussion. A planned contribution is mulled over in advance of class and can take the form of a question, illustration of a point in the reading, a disagreement, or a contrast with other readings.

Respect your colleagues: Once in class, be prepared to listen to and work with colleagues. At all times be prepared to comment on colleague’s statements or to summarize perspectives that have been presented. Always treat seriously any comment offered in earnest. If you disagree with a colleague, clarify your position using appropriate evidence or explanation.

Seek help when needed: Course members are welcome to secure additional help on papers at the William L. Adams Writing Center (ext. 7221). For writing-center information visit <http://www.wrt.tcu.edu/> online. Students who receive tutoring—formal or informal—from individuals or programs other than the William L. Adams Writing Center are responsible for ensuring that the tutoring adheres to ethical standards consistent with those followed at the writing center (e.g., tutors do not write any portion of a student’s paper; tutors do not proofread; tutors do not assist students with take-home exams). Students whose tutoring does not meet such ethical standards violate the university’s code on academic misconduct and are subject to its penalties.

E-college: We will use the E-college learning platform extensively in this course. We will share all documents, have multiple threaded discussions, and track your grades on our class site.

Philanthropy Fridays: This speaker series will take place during already established Fridays this semester. During these sessions, we will have a lunch and spend time with a speaker who will give a short presentation and answer questions regarding their work and thoughts on philanthropy, as well as your work in this class.

Course Organization and Content

Classes: Our classroom will prioritize class discussion and expect smart participation from every member in the class. Our goal is to provide a seminar-like experience and opportunities to learn through inquiry rather than simple regurgitation.

Class Participation: Your success in this course depends heavily on participation. Participation comes in many forms. You are expected to participate as a speaker willing to share ideas and make arguments or evaluations. You are expected to participate as a listener willing to pay attention in class and follow the discussion. You are expected to participate as a dedicated writer willing to discuss nonprofits and ideas online. I expect a lot from you as a class participant. To help you succeed in this area, I have a system that depends on weekly self-reflection, my evaluation, and regular feedback. After every Monday class, you will fill out a self-evaluation through Qualtrics. I will read these evaluations to see if my observations line up with your self-evaluation. If these do not line up, I will schedule a meeting with you. Evaluating group members through Qualtrics is also key to your participation. Meetings for people who I deem as needing one will take place quarterly during weeks 4, 8, 13, and 17. More is provided in the section titled “Participation.”

One-page reflections and responses: Over the course of the semester, you will have one-page statements and responses. These exist to help you reflect and make meaning from key events/moments in class. These documents will be turned in via E-college in a drop box.

Initial White Papers: You will produce five one-page white papers nominating nonprofits for consideration. These white papers should provide contact information (in case a reader wants to see more) and summarize purpose, achievements, financials (if readily available), pros, and cons. To write these white papers, students will not need to visit the nonprofits or make contact. These documents will be turned in via E-college in a drop box.

Top 50 Briefing Documents: These 3 page small-group studies of assigned nonprofits dig deeper than the one-page white paper and provide a greater sense of due diligence. A closer examination of financials and a discussion of needs (based on site visit and communication with the nonprofit) is key to this document. These documents will be turned in via E-college in a drop box.

Final Group Briefings and Presentations: Groups of 4-5 students will produce these materials, which are extensive 10-15 page documents analyzing finalist organizations. The documents should reflect complete due diligence and clearly communicate the specific needs of nonprofits. The presentation should use multimedia, last 10 minutes, and provide 5 minutes for questions.

Final Personal Reflection and Letters to Donors: One-page documents turned in via E-college to drop box.

Evaluation

In this class I will meet with you regularly to evaluate your progress. In order to receive a passing grade for this course, you must satisfactorily complete all major assignments on time with a cumulative passing average. Grades will be calculated using the following scale:

- 93-100 = A
- 90-92.999 = A-
- 87-89.999 = B+
- 83-86.999 = B
- 80-82.999 = B-
- 77-79.999 = C+
- 73-76.999 = C
- 70-72.999 = C-
